DETAILED ACTION

Priority

An application in which the benefits of an earlier application are desired must contain a specific reference to the prior application(s) in the first sentence of the specification of in an application data sheet (37 CFR 1.78(a)(2) and (a)(5)). The specific reference to any prior nonprovisional application must include the relationship (i.e., continuation, divisional, or continuation-in-part) between the applications except when the reference is to a prior application of a CPA assigned the same application number.

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election of Group I (intervertebral disc tool) in the reply filed on 10/30/06 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)). Claims 9-12 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3738

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Landry et al. (2003/233145). Fig. 1 shows an artificial intervertebral disc with two baseplates 12', 12''. Fig. 6 illustrates a coupling 14 that is disposed between the baseplates that permits articulation, see also paragraph 104. Figs. 37,41-44,47,48,55 illustrate tools for inserting the spinal devices and have tines 430, 1004,1006, 1116 respectively. It can also be seen (Fig. 1) that the baseplates have spikes 24 for securing to the vertebrae. Figs. 41-44 show the tool having a handle and that the instrument can apply force in the proximal and distal direction for insertion of the spinal implant. Fig. 37 illustrates the tool has a stop 462 to prevent over insertion. Fig. 48 illustrates the tine is tapered at its end.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7,8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Landry et al. (2003/233145). Landry is explained supra. However, Landry fails to disclose the intervertebral disc has an upper baseplate with a lower surface that is flat and an upper surface of the lower baseplate being curved that corresponds with tines of the tool. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to modify the corresponding engagement surfaces of the tines and baseplates, since applicant has not disclosed that using curved and flat contours provide any advantage, or solve a stated problem, or are used for any particular purpose. One of ordinary skill in the art, furthermore, would have expected Applicant's invention to perform equally well with the matching contours of the tines and baseplates taught by Landry et al. or the claimed flat and curved surfaces in claim(s) 7,8 because both spinal implant systems perform the same function of delivering a movable spinal implant between the vertebrae.
